6 move for an order:

7 (1) dismissing this action, pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure,
8 Rule 12(b)(3) for improper venue; or

10 (2) in the alternative, transferring venue of this action, pursuant to 28
11 U.S.C. § 1406(a), to the United States District Court for the Northern 12 District of Illinois, where Everpure's executive offices are located and the 13 parties contractually agreed to resolve all disputes pursuant to a forum

16 alternative, 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a), on the ground that the distribution agreement
17 between Water and Everpure that is at issue contains an express forum-selection
18 clause providing that the exclusive jurisdiction for any disputes between the parties
19 is in the State of Illinois.

20 This motion will be based upon this notice, the attached memorandum of 21 points and authorities, the declaration of Michael Madsen and exhibits thereto, the 22 entire file in this action, and such other argument and evidence as may be 23 presented at or before the hearing on this motion. Everpure notes that this 24 amended notice and motion makes no substantive changes to the papers previously
25 filed. The only changes are to the date, time, courtroom location, and Judge's

4 conference, counsel for the parties were not able to reach a resolution of the issue
5 presented by this motion that would eliminate the need for a hearing.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

This motion can be quickly decided by looking at a single clause in the parties' Select Master Distributor Agreement (the "Agreement"): the forum selection clause. The Agreement is attached to the Complaint as Exhibit 1. Paragraph 10.9 of the Agreement provides that Water and Everpure irrevocably submit to and waive any objection either may have to venue in state and federal courts of Illinois. (See Ex. 1 to Compl.). Venue in Los Angeles is thus improper. This case should be dismissed pursuant to Rule 12(b)(3) or, in the alternative, transferred to the Northern District of Illinois pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1406(A), where the parties contractually agreed to resolve all disputes pursuant to the forum selection clause.

II. FACTS

Water, Inc. ("Water") has been an Everpure distributor since 1979. The most current Agreement was entered into on July 1, 1996. (Compl. ¶ 11.)¹ Water is a wholesale distributor of water filtration devices and water delivery systems. (Id. ¶ 1.) Under the terms of the Agreement, Water distributes Everpure products in seven western states. (Id. ¶ 11.) Water must purchase all of its water treatment products from Everpure and is prohibited from engaging in any business that competes with or is substantially similar to the products manufactured by Everpure. (Id.; Ex. 1 to Compl. at §§ 5.2 and 5.3.) Among other things, the Agreement also requires Water to operate in compliance with all applicable laws and to conform its sales practices to the highest standards of honesty, integrity and fair dealing; to respect the validity and ownership by Everpure of the registered trademarks of Everpure; and, to refrain from engaging in conduct that is likely to

1 deceive the public as to the source, nature or quality of products or services offered
2 by Water, or that is likely to impair the name, trademark or reputation of Everpure.
3 (Id. §§ 5.2, 5.3, 5.5, 5.8, 6 and 9.1(b)(2).).

4 As Water acknowledges in its own Complaint, Water has developed its own
5 “proprietary marketing plan” for its business and sells products that directly
6 compete with Everpure. (See Compl. ¶¶ 9, 17.) Although Water twists the facts, 7 its allegations in paragraphs 19 and 20 of the Complaint make clear that Water is 8 selling products that compete with Everpure products, and Water is not buying all
9 of its water treatment products from Everpure. Although Water attempts to place a 10 gloss on these facts that support its arguments, these allegations correctly assert
11 that the scope of the dispute between the parties is whether Water’s competitive
12 activities constitute a breach of the Agreement.

13 Further, Water’s allegations establish that on October 31, 2007, Everpure
14 notified Water that Water was in breach of the Agreement. (Id. ¶ 20.). Water 15 disputes Everpure’s statement that Water is in breach, and all of the claims in 16 Water’s Complaint stem from that dispute. Thus, the critical issue between the 17 parties is whether or not Water’s competitive activities and failures to abide by the 18 Agreement terms constitute a breach of the Agreement and grounds for 19 termination. Each of Water’s 14 enumerated claims is dependent on the 20 Agreement and the resolution of that dispute.

21 By initiating this suit in Los Angeles, Water has ignored the forum selection
22 clause in its Agreement. The Agreement unequivocally provides that the parties 23 “irrevocably submit, and waive any objection either may have, to personal 24 jurisdiction or venue in the state and federal courts of applicable subject
25 matter jurisdiction where Everpure’s executive offices are located in Illinois.”
26 (Id. at Ex. 1, ¶ 10.9 (emphasis added).) The Complaint correctly alleges that 27 Everpure’s offices are at 1040 Muirfield Drive, Hanover Park, Illinois, 80133.
28

(Compl. at ¶ 4.) Those offices are within the Northern District of Illinois. See <http://pacer.psc.uscourts.gov/psco/cgi-bin/district.pl>.

The forum selection clause further states that “[a]ll remedies provided in this Agreement are cumulative and, except for forum selection under this Section, are in addition to any remedy otherwise available under applicable federal, state or local law”. (Compl., Ex. 1 at ¶ 10.9 (emphasis added).) Because Water is located in Southern California while the defendants are located in Illinois and Minnesota, Water’s strategic reason for choosing to file in Los Angeles is apparent: to attempt to gain a tactical advantage and to drive up the defendants’ litigation costs. Water should not be rewarded for its forum-shopping, as it previously agreed that Illinois was the only proper venue.

In sum, the parties’ forum selection clause mandates that venue for the parties’ dispute is Illinois. This Court should therefore:

- Dismiss this action because of improper venue, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure, Rule 12(b)(3); or
- Transfer venue of this action to the Northern District of Illinois, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a).

III. LEGAL STANDARD

“A motion to dismiss for improper venue based on the enforcement of a forum selection clause is governed by Rule 12(b)(3).” See Doe v. Network Solutions, No. C 07-05115 JSW, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7397, at *11-12 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 22, 2008) (citing Argueta v. Banco Mexicano, 87 F.3d 320, 324 (9th Cir. 1996)). “[A] motion under Rule 12(b)(3) does not require that the pleadings be accepted as true, and the Court can consider facts outside the pleadings.” Id. at *12. The Court “must draw all reasonable inferences and resolve all factual conflicts in favor of the non-moving party.” Id. (citing Murphy v. Schneider Nat’l.

1 Inc., 362 F.3d 1133, 1138 (9th Cir. 2004)). This Court has the authority to either
 2 dismiss the improperly-filed action; or “if it be in the interest of justice” transfer
 3 the case to the proper district. 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a); see also Dist. No. 1, Pac.
 4 Coast Dist., M.E.B.A. v. State of Alaska, 682 F.2d 797, 799 (9th Cir. 1982).

5 IV. ARGUMENT

6 Water’s complaint should be dismissed because it has been brought in a 7 venue contrary to the one specified in the forum selection clause contained in the 8 Agreement. The forum selection clause provides that Illinois is the only 9 appropriate venue, it covers all of Water’s claims, and is valid and enforceable. In 10 the alternative to dismissing, this case should be transferred to the Northern 11 District of Illinois pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a).

12 A. THIS CASE SHOULD BE DISMISSED UNDER RULE 12(b)(3) 13 FOR IMPROPER VENUE.

14 Federal courts in this circuit have held that when parties to a contract have 15 agreed on a specific venue, that agreement cannot be avoided, and an action filed
 16 in a venue other than the one specified in the contract must be dismissed. See, e.g.,
 17 Argueta, 87 F.3d at 324-26 (dismissing action pursuant to 12(b)(3) because a 18 forum selection clause dictated another venue); Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. M.V.
 19 DSR Atl., 131 F.3d 1336 (9th Cir. 1997) (dismissing action based on a “prima facie
 20 valid” forum selection clause); Kelso Enters. v. M/V Wisida Frost, 8 F.Supp.2d 21 1197, 1207 (C.D. Cal. 1998) (dismissing pursuant to 12(b)(3) because of forum
 22 selection clause); Doe, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7397, at *12 (stating that “[f]orum
 23 selection clauses are prima facie valid.”) (citing Manetti-Farrow, Inc. v. Gucci 24 Am., Inc., 858 F.2d 509, 514 (9th Cir. 1988)); TAAG Linhas Aereas de Angola v.

 27 17 (E.D. Cal. Apr. 7, 2006) (enforcing forum selection clause in a distribution relationship); Turner v. Thorworks Indus., No. CIV. 5-05-02653 WBS KJM, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21668, at *9, 12-13 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 28, 2006) (enforcing forum selection clause in a franchise relationship).
 28

(1) Dismissal is Appropriate Because the Forum Selection Clause Provides that Illinois is the Only Appropriate Venue.

Dismissal pursuant to Rule 12(b)(3) is appropriate in this case, because the forum selection clause provides that Illinois is the only appropriate jurisdiction for disputes between Water and Everpure. When the term “venue” is used with mandatory language, the designated state or district is the exclusive forum. See Docksider, Ltd. v. Sea Tech., Ltd., 875 F.2d 762, 764 (9th Cir. 1989). In this case, the forum selection clause contained in the agreements states that the parties “irrevocably submit, and waive any objection either may have, to personal jurisdiction or venue in the state and federal courts of applicable subject matter jurisdiction where Everpure’s executive offices are located in Illinois.” (Compl., Ex. 1 at ¶ 10.9 (emphasis added).) This mandatory language necessitates a finding that venue in the contractually-designated forum of Illinois is exclusive and mandatory.

Having consented to the Illinois forum when it signed the Agreement, Water cannot now avoid the clear language of the forum selection clause. A party cannot attempt to “change the bargain” of the contract and “contradict the policy of enforcing forum selection clauses” by objecting to venue after entering into a contract. See Manetti-Farrow, 858 F.2d at 515. A forum selection clause waives the parties’ right to complain about its own inconvenience in litigating in the designated venue. See Heller Fin., Inc. v. Midwhey Powder Co., 883 F.2d 1286, 1293 (7th Cir. 1989). As such, Illinois is the only proper venue for disputes between Water and Everpure, and the Court should dismiss this case.

(2) The Forum Selection Clause Covers all Claims in Water’s Complaint.

The language of the forum selection clause covers all claims alleged by Water in this action. The complete clause states as follows:

This Agreement is made in and will be construed under the laws of the State of Illinois, where the executive offices of Everpure are located. Since Everpure and [Water] have a significant interest in consistent interpretation of this Agreement, and Everpure expects to have Select Master Distributors throughout the United States, Everpure and [Water] irrevocably submit, and waive any objection either may have, to personal jurisdiction or venue in the state and federal courts of applicable subject matter jurisdiction where Everpure’s executive offices are located in Illinois. All remedies provided in this Agreement are cumulative and, except for forum selection under this Section, are in addition to any remedy otherwise available under applicable federal, state or local law.

(See Compl., Ex. 1 at ¶ 10.9.). The parties agreed to waive “any objection” to venue in Illinois and they further agreed to “irrevocably submit” to venue in Illinois. (Id.) It therefore governs “all causes of action arising directly or indirectly from the business relationship evidenced by the contract.” Stewart Org., Inc. v. Ricoh Corp., 810 F.2d 1066, 1070 (11th Cir. 1987).

A forum selection clause in a contract applies to tort and unfair competition claims as well as contract claims. See Manetti-Farrow, 858 F.2d at 514; see also Doe, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7397, at *13. Tort claims are covered by the forum

1 selection clause if they are related to the rights and duties under the contract, such 2 that resolution of the tort claims is related to interpretation of the contract. See id.
 3 Similarly, antitrust claims — including those arising from the termination of an 4 agreement — can fall within a forum selection clause, especially when “the gist”
 5 of the action is the parties’ contractual relationship. See Bense v. Interstate Battery
 6 Sys., 683 F.2d 718, 720 (2d Cir. 1982); Stewart Org., 810 F.2d at 1070-71.

7 In this case, each and every one of Water’s claims surrounds, involves, and 8 depends on the Agreement. Claims One, Two, Four, Five and Six allege that 9 Everpure’s decision to stop selling products to Water under the Agreement 10 amounts to illegal restraints on trade and seek as a remedy an injunction that 11 prohibits Everpure from terminating the Agreement.² (See Compl.) Thus, the 12 resolution of these claims will depend upon the resolution of the dispute between 13 Water and Everpure under paragraphs 5.2 and 5.3 of the Agreement. The Third
 14 and Eighth Claims also allege an unlawful termination of the Agreement and also 15 seek as a remedy an injunction that prohibits Everpure from terminating the 16 Agreement. (Id.) The seventh claim is a direct claim for breach of the Agreement.
 17 The tort claims in Claims Nine through Twelve all also allege that Everpure’s
 18 termination of the Agreement tortiously interfered with Water’s business
 19 expectancies and contractual relations. (Id.) Claims Thirteen and Fourteen again
 20 seek to enjoin or “estop[]” Everpure from terminating the Agreement. (Id.) The 21 Agreement, and in particular, the interpretation of Paragraphs 5.2, 5.3, 5.5, 5.8, 6
 22 and 9.1(b)(2) of the Agreement, is the linchpin of every claim made by Water.

23 If Water’s claims, which stem directly from the parties’ contractual 24 relationship, are not covered by the forum-selection clause, the entire purpose of 25

26 ² Although Everpure sent a notice of breach on October 31, 2007, Everpure has not terminated
 27 the contract. (Madsen Decl. ¶¶ 3-4, Ex. A). Water’s attorneys have conceded in writing that 28 Everpure rescinded the notice of termination. (Id. ¶ 5; Ex. B.).

1 designating a forum in advance would be defeated. As the Agreement itself
2 provides, because Everpure has master distributors throughout the United States,
3 and the parties have a significant interest in consistent interpretation of the 4 Agreement, it is in the parties' best interest to have all disputes dealing with 5 interpretation of the Agreement in a single forum. The parties have agreed that 6 such forum is the Northern District of Illinois.

7 (3) The Forum Selection Clause is Valid and Enforceable.

8 Forum selection clauses are presumed valid. They will be enforced unless it 9 clearly would be "unreasonable and unjust, or that the clause was invalid for such 10 reasons as fraud or overreaching." See M/S Bremen v. Zapata Off-Shore Co., 407
11 U.S. 1, 15 (1972); Manetti-Farrow, 858 F.2d at 512. As such, the party opposing 12 enforcement of the forum selection clause bears a "heavy burden of proof" and, in 13 order to avoid the forum selection clause, must demonstrate that the contractually-
14 chosen forum is so "gravely difficult" and inconvenient that, for all practical
15 purposes, the party will be deprived of his or her day in court. M/S Bremen, 407
16 U.S. at 18; Manetti-Farrow, 858 F.2d at 514-15.

17 The standards set forth by the Supreme Court in Bremen for invalidating a 18 forum selection clause are intentionally strict. When the choice of forum is made 19 after arms' length negotiation by experienced and sophisticated businessmen, it
20 should be enforced except in the most egregious of circumstances. See M/S
21 Bremen, 407 U.S. at 12. That reasoning applies here to bar Water from asserting
22 that the forum selection clause is somehow invalid. Water knew at the time it 23 signed the Agreement that it would have to litigate any disputes with Everpure in 24 Illinois. For Water to now claim that the forum selection clause is unfair is 25 disingenuous, especially as it has, for many years, reaped the benefits of other 26 provisions of the Agreement.

27 The selected forum is logical. Everpure is located in Illinois, and the 28

1 Agreement is to be construed according to Illinois state law. As a company that
2 transacts business nationwide, Everpure has a legitimate interest in knowing
3 exactly what law would govern its disputes and the location where those disputes
4 would be resolved. See id. at 13-14. Finally, the Illinois forum is not “gravely
5 difficult” for Water. Water transacts business all over the Western United States,
6 and can raise any and all claims it has against Everpure in Illinois. The forum
7 selection clause is therefore not unreasonable, and the Court should give full force
8 and effect to the parties’ previously negotiated choice.

9 B. WATER CANNOT AVOID THE APPLICATION OF THE 10 FORUM SELECTION CLAUSE BY PLEADING A
11 FRANCHISE CLAIM.

12 Water cannot avoid the forum selection clause merely by adding a claim 13 under the California Franchise Relations Act (“CFRA”). (See Compl., Third 14 Claim for Relief.). In Jones v. GNC Franchising, Inc., 211 F.3d 495 (2000), the 15 Ninth Circuit held that a forum selection clause that requires a California
16 franchisee to resolve claims related to the franchise agreement in a non-California
17 court directly contravenes the state's public policy and is void. However, the Jones 18 case is inapplicable for at least three reasons –first and foremost being that the 19 relationship between the parties is not a franchise, but a pure supplier/distributor 20 relationship.

21 Second, the reasoning behind the Jones decision is inapplicable here. The 22 Jones court discussed that the reason the CFRA voided forum selection clauses 23 was because:

24 [f]ew franchisees can easily afford to defend or prosecute
25 their actions in another state. . . . Moreover, these 26 provisions are usually part of the standard contract which 27 the franchisee is offered on a “take-it or leave-it” basis.

In the absence of arms length negotiations and equal bargaining position, such terms are usually unconscionable.

Id. at 498 n.15. Water is a multi-million dollar company who was represented by counsel in the signing of the Agreement. (Madsen Decl. ¶¶ 6-7.)

Third, the Agreement at issue is a multi-state territory agreement that should not be subject solely to California public policy. Water acknowledges in its own pleading that it is a distributor in seven western states. (See Compl. ¶ 11). Schedule B to the Agreement lists ten states in which Water distributes Everpure product. (Complaint, Ex. 1 at Schedule B.). Such a multi-state territory relationship is entirely unlike the franchise relationship at issue in the Jones case. The CFRA should not be interpreted to mandate that all other states adhere to California law when there is a multi-state relationship. See Morley-Murphy Co. v. Zenith Elecs. Corp., 142 F.3d 373, 379-80 (7th Cir. 1998) (discussing how extraterritorial application of Wisconsin's Fair Dealership Law would violate the Commerce Clause of the U.S. Constitution).

Water's attempt to avoid its contractual obligations by claiming protection of the CFRA must be viewed in light of the Jones warning that "[t]he party challenging the forum selection clause bears a 'heavy burden' of establishing the existence of one of the . . . grounds for rejecting its enforcement." 211 F.3d at 497 (citing Fireman's Fund Ins. Co., 131 F.3d at 1338). The remaining argument under this section will focus on the foremost reason that the Jones case does not apply –because the statutory definition, as well as Water's own allegations in the Complaint, show that Water is not a "franchise."

(1) Water Does Not Meet the Statutory Definition of a "Franchise."

The statutory definition of "franchise" shows that Water is not an Everpure

1 franchisee. The CFRA defines a “franchise” as follows:

2 [A] contract or agreement, either expressed or implied,
3 whether oral or written, between two or more persons by 4 which:

5 (a) A franchisee is granted the right to engage in the 6 business of offering, selling or distributing goods or 7 services under a marketing plan or system prescribed in 8 substantial part by a franchisor; and

9 (b) The operation of the franchisee’s business pursuant to 10 that plan or system is substantially associated with the 11 franchisor’s trademark, service mark, trade name,
12 logotype, advertising, or other commercial symbol
13 designating the franchisor or its affiliate; and

14 (c) The franchisee is required to pay, directly or 15 indirectly, a franchise fee.

16 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 20001. Water and Everpure are not regulated by the 17 CFRA, because Water does not distribute Everpure’s products “under a marketing 18 plan or system prescribed in substantial part” by Everpure and because Water was 19 not required to pay a franchise fee. (Madsen Decl. ¶¶ 8-9.).

20 a) Water does not distribute Everpure’s products under 21 a marketing plan or system prescribed in substantial
22 part by Everpure.

23 “If no marketing plan or system is prescribed and the franchisee is left 24 entirely free to operate the business according to the franchisee’s own marketing
25 plan or system, the agreement is not a franchise.” See Commissioner's Release: 3-F
26 \(Revised June 22, 1994\) When Does an Agreement Constitute a "Franchise"? at 27 <http://www.corp.ca.gov/press/commisser/releases /3-F.asp>, at 2.a (last visited May 28

14, 2008); see also Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 20009 (“The regulations, releases, guidelines and interpretive opinions of the Commissioner of Corporations under the Franchise Investment Law (Division 5 (commencing with Section 31000) of Title 4 of the Corporations Code) regarding whether or not an agreement constitutes a “franchise” within the meaning of that law shall be prima facie evidence of the scope and extent of coverage of the definition of “franchise” under this chapter. . .”). There can be no dispute that Water does not operate under a marketing plan prescribed by Everpure, let alone a plan substantially prescribed by Everpure.

Of all of those traditional ways in which a franchisor can prescribe a franchisee’s marketing plan³, Everpure does none of them. For example, the vast majority of Water’s advertising expenses are paid for by Water and such advertising is not subject to approval by Everpure. (Madsen Decl., ¶ 10.)⁴ Everpure does not regulate, and is not even knowledgeable about, Water’s pricing. (Id. ¶ 11.) Water is allowed to sell to any customer located within the Territory that it wishes and does not have to follow any type of sales script. (Id. ¶ 12.) Water is also allowed royalty-free use of Everpure’s trademarks. (Id. ¶ 13.) Finally, Water is responsible for, and prescribes all of its own marketing and advertising. (See Compl. ¶¶ 17-18, 66, 104).

³ In determining whether this factor applies, courts will generally look to see whether the franchisor places any strict regulations on the franchises in to “advertising, signs, sales pitches, and sources of supply, or concerning the appearance of the licensee’s business premises and the fixtures and equipment utilized therein, uniforms of employees, hours of operation, housekeeping, and similar decorations.” (Commissioner’s Release, at 2.c) “Furthermore, the ability of the franchisor to control the essential decision making process of a franchisee’s business, such as through a majority ownership interest in the business or by appointing a majority of the members of a committee that is responsible for making important decisions relating to sales, marketing, merchandising, personnel, etc., is indicative of a marketing plan prescribed by the franchisor.” (Id.)

⁴ On a motion to dismiss for improper venue, the Court can consider matters outside the Complaint. See Doe, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7397, at *12.

Water and Everpure are two autonomous companies that have a supplier-distributor relationship. This is not the type of relationship that the CFRA is intended to protect. See, e.g., Premier Wine & Spirits of S.D. v. E.&J. Gallo Winery, 644 F. Supp. 1431 (E.D. Cal. 1986) (holding that a typical supplier-distributorship relationship, where the distributor sells competitors' products and there is no franchise fee, is not a franchise relationship under either South Dakota or California law). Here, Water is operating as a separate and distinct corporate entity from Everpure; Water is not operating its business under Everpure's name. Water completely maintains its own business identity. See Jerome-Duncan, Inc. v. Auto-By-Tel, L.L.C., 176 F.3d 904, 910-11 (6th Cir. 1999) (where dealer had control over hours and days of operation, hired and trained employees subject to its own policies, set its own sales goals, and exercised control over the day-to-day business decisions, the dealer was a business that functioned independently and was not a franchisee). Water's claim under the CFRA is simply a last-ditch attempt to avoid complying with the forum selection clause.

b) Water did not pay a franchise fee.

The relationship between Water and Everpure is also not a "franchise" under the CFRA for the additional and separate reason that Water was never required to pay a franchise fee. (Madsen Decl. ¶ 9.) The CFRA defines a "franchise fee," in relevant part, as follows:

[A]ny fee or charge that a franchisee . . . is required to pay or agrees to pay for the right to enter into a business under a franchise agreement, including, but not limited to, any payment for goods and services.

However, the following shall not be considered the payment of a franchise fee:

(a) The purchase or agreement to purchase goods at a

1 bona fide wholesale price if no obligation is imposed
 2 upon the purchaser to purchase or pay for a quantity of 3 goods in excess of that which a reasonable
 4 businessperson normally would purchase by way of a
 5 starting inventory or supply or to maintain a going
 6 inventory or supply. . .

7 (d) The payment, directly or indirectly, of a franchise fee
 8 which, on an annual basis, does not exceed the sum of 9 one hundred dollars ($100).

10 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 20007. There is no allegation of a fee in the Complaint, 11 and Water labels itself as a “wholesale distributor.” (Compl. at ¶ 11.).

12 Because Water was not required to pay a franchise fee, the Agreement is not 13 regulated by the CFRA, the Jones case is inapplicable, and the case should be 14 dismissed. See Multimin USA, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 33624, at *16-17 (refusing 15 to apply the reasoning of the Jones case in a distribution relationship); see also 16 Turner, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21668, at *13 (dismissing claims despite state’s 17 “interest in interpreting and applying California Franchise Investment Laws” and 18 holding that a party should be equitably estopped from claiming the benefits of the 19 contract while simultaneously attempting to avoid the burden of a forum selection 20 clause).

21 (2) Water’s Own Pleading Indicates that the Relationship is 22 Not a Franchise.

23 In addition to failing to meet the statutory definition of a “franchise,” 24 Everpure’s pleading shows that the relationship is not a franchise. In the very first 25 paragraph of its Complaint, Water states that it is “a distributor of water filtration
 26 devices and water delivery systems located within the State of California and sells
 27 its products to consumers in California, and in its EVERPURE distributorship territory in the Western United States.” (See Compl. ¶ 1) (emphasis added). Paragraph eight of the complaint states that Water “began serving as a distributor of EVERPURE water filtration products.” (Id. ¶ 8). Paragraph eleven states that Water was “designated as the western regional wholesale distributor of Everpure, LLC.” (Id. ¶ 11). Water refers to itself as a Distributor throughout its Complaint.⁵ Nowhere in the complaint (even in the section dealing with its franchise claims!) does Water allege that it is a franchisee. Of the entire forty-four page complaint, the word “franchise” only appears twice- once in the pleading caption on page 1 and once in the title of the claim for violation of the CFRA on page 18.
 28

In addition to its failure to even plead that it is a franchisee, the actual allegations themselves show that the relationship between Water and Everpure is an independent distribution relationship. Throughout the complaint, Water discusses, and seeks to protect, its own independent business line and products. (See, e.g., ¶¶ 9-10, 12-13, 15-17, 19, 24, 100-104, and 114-116.). Water also pleads that it developed its own “proprietary marketing plan” and “confidential

⁵ Such understanding is consistent with section 7.1 of the Agreement in which the parties expressly agreed that the relationship was not a franchise and that Water was an independent contractor responsible for its own business success. That section states as follows:

Independent Contractor/Acknowledgments. [Water] is an independent contractor and agrees to identify itself as independently owned and operated in all dealings with the public. It is not authorized to act or create liability on behalf of Everpure. Each party acknowledges that it is not relying on any representations of the other and that its business success is dependent largely on its own business abilities and efforts; that this Agreement is not intended to create a franchise or business opportunity venture regulated under any federal or state law; that the business conducted by each party may evolve and change over time; and that its obligations under this Agreement are essential and reasonable requirements to achieve the intention of the parties.

(See Ex. 1 to Compl., ¶ 7.1) (emphasis added).

1 marketing plan” that it shared with Everpure, and not vice versa. (See ¶¶ 17, 66,
 2 104.). Water goes as far as to accuse Everpure of misappropriating Water’s
 3 marketing plan. (See ¶ 18). Finally, all of the antitrust claims surround Water’s
 4 sale of “competing products.” (See, e.g., ¶¶ 30-36, 42-44, 53, 59, 100). Those 5 allegations show that the relationship between Everpure and Water was not a 6 franchise.

7 C. IN THE ALTERNATIVE, THIS CASE SHOULD BE 8 TRANSFERRED TO THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF 9 ILLINOIS PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. §1406(A) FOR 10 IMPROPER VENUE.

11 If the Court declines to dismiss Water’s complaint, it should, alternatively,
 12 transfer this case to the Northern District of Illinois pursuant to 28 U.S.C.
 13 § 1406(a). 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a) and Rule 12(b)(3) are essentially interchangeable,
 14 except insofar as section 1406(a) gives the court the option to transfer venue in lieu 15 of dismissal. See Nat’l Micrographics Sys. v. Canon U.S.A., Inc., 825 F. Supp.
 16 671, 680 n.14 (D.N.J. 1993). Everpure’s executive offices are located in the 17 Northern District of Illinois. (Madsen Decl. ¶ 15.) Therefore, should the Court not 18 dismiss this action, the Court should transfer it to the Northern District of Illinois, 19 the venue the parties voluntarily agreed to per their Agreement.
